Curious Facts About Blind Tom.

Blind Tom's birthplace is Georgia, and he began to excite attention as a musician at the age of four years. All sounds afforded him delight, even the crying of a child caused him to dance about in a state of ecstasy. When at home he often bit and pinched his brothers and sisters to make them emit cries of pain. If kept away from a piano, he would beat against the wall, drag chairs about the room, and make all sorts of noises. When in London a flute was produced for him of very complicated pattern, and having twenty two keys. He frequently rises up at night and plays this instrument, imitating upon it all sorts of sounds which he may hear at the time. Once, when the agent attempted to make him stop playing a piano in a high toned hotel at 3 o'clock in the morning Tom seized him and threw him through the door. In Washington he threw a man down stairs who came in his room. When at home in Georgia he lives in a building about two hundred yards from the house, and there remains alone with his piano, playing all day and night, like one possessed with madness. Bad weather has an effect upon his music. In cloudy, rainy seasons, he plays more in minor chords, and when the sun shines and the birds sing he indulges in waltzes and light music. Sometimes he would hummer away for hours, producing the most horrible discord imaginable. Suddenly a change comes over him and he indulges in magnificent bursts of harmony taken from the best productions of the masters since his childhood he has been an idiot, and he played nearly as well at the age of seven years as he does now, but now his repertoire is much larger, as he can play anything he has ever heard. He now plays about seven thousand pieces and picks up new ones everywhere. It is a curious fact that he will not play Sunday school music if he can help it having a great dislike for it.

How Republican Rule Pays.

The Philadelphia Press of the 3d instant says: "When Governor Bigler retired from the gubernatorial chair, the last of an unbroken line of Democratic Governors reaching from 1823, the administration of William F. Johnson on the 1st of January, 1877, the State debt of $44,000,000. Before the time of Governor Pollock, Pennsylvania had elected but two Governors who were not Democrats—Governor Johnson first mentioned and, in 1820, Governor Horner, a Federalist. We may safely charge our burden of State debt to Democratic administration. Since the advent of Whig and Republican administrations the debt has been steadily on the decrease, so that now, after having borne the terrible strain of war, it has been brought down to within $2,000,000. Our extraordinary war expenses alone amounted to $6,000,000 and these have been taken into this account. In the face of all this the personal taxes have been reduced, and the tax on real estate removed entirely. The farmer and small owner now pays not one cent hand-tax in Pennsylvania. This is one plank in our platform, the coming campaign, and the strongest purely State issue ever presented to the people of Pennsylvania. The Whig and Republican Administrations have done this, and the safe course is to continue the success."

"How long, Oh Lord, how long," is the title of a poem by the poet, which the public had hoped that they were no longer to be troubled with it, and now the poet has written it with a fresh confession and Henry Wadsworth Longfellow has written it with a fresh denial. There seems to be no help for it; we've got the whole thing to wade through again.

CLAIMS amounting to more than $1,000,000, it is said, will soon be presented to Congress by General Sherman, growing out of General Sherman's famous "march to the sea," in December, 1864. When the General entered Savannah, he met with no hostile resistance, and occupied the city peacefully. He thereupon issued a proclamation that all property taken from citizens for the use of his army would be paid for, and in most cases he issued receipts therefor. Now the holders of these receipts claim that they have never received the promised compensation.

FOR SUPERINTENDENT.

The "National" and "Democrat" have made their nominations, and the Republicans will soon follow suit. The candidates already nominated are not much to reflect any particular glory upon the parties nominating them. The Republicans have an opportunity of placing in the field such a ticket as will give it a decided advantage over its opponents, and absolutely insure victory. Various gentlemen have been named for the office of state superintendent, but none whose reputation will compare with that of the Hon. Newton Bateman, who can have a clean field in the canvass if he desires it. We are glad to see that his name has been hoisted by several papers whose editors are supposed to be in his confidence, in stating that he will accept the nomination if tendered to him. There is no man in Illinois whose whole life has been so closely identified with the educational interests of the state. His reputation is not confined to the state alone, nor even to the nation, but wherever popular education is known the name of Dr. Bateman is honored.

The Republican state convention would reflect credit upon itself, and give satisfaction to the people by nominating Dr. Bateman.

WE CAN'T DO IT.

Our readers will please bear in mind that we have not time to answer all the absurd and idiotic things that Mr. Kimball says about the REPUBLICAN. He is so utterly unreliable in his statements, so extravagant in falsehood and so economical in the use of truth, so malicious in his desire to injure the people among whom he lives and the town which feeds him, so prone to stir up discord and so loth to live in peace among his fellows—that we must beg to be excused from paying attention to every insane and wicked charge that he makes against us or others. Life is too short to be entirely wasted in attempting to prove self-evident facts, or in endeavoring to account for the vacillations of a man whose course leaves everybody in doubt as to whether he is most a knave or fool. We have long borne with the idiosyncrasies of this man, under the impression that he is hardly accountable for what he says, though frequently led to the belief that his actions have been prompted more by malice than anything else. But, whether he be knave or fool, we do not propose to make attendance upon his case our sole object in life. As a handsome man he has exhibited traits which stamp him as one of the most impractical of all the impracticals. As an editor he has shown an utter lack of fitness for his calling, and has always been on the hunt for something to stir up a commotion and breed discord among his neighbors. As a "reformer" he has crowned all his other follies with the exhibition of a spirit of intolerance which would do no discredit to the teachings of Ignatius Loyola. His chief stock in trade is his ability to stoke to any lie he may concoct, no matter how improbable, and to abuse and vilify all who fail to agree with him. We must be excused, therefore, from paying attention to all he says, and shall endeavor to not defile the columns of the REPUBLICAN with allusions to him, except when the public interests demand that his lying, hypocritical pretenses be unmasked.

Mr. TILTON ought to have produced his wife's confession a few months ago, or postponed it until six months hence. It is too late for the present lecture season, and too early for the next one.

Revival of the Beecher-Tilton Scandal.

Another Confession from Elizabeth.

And a New Denial from Beecher.

New York, April 15.—The World, of tomorrow, will print the following: Yesterday, about noon, Theodore Tilton called upon Ira B. Wheeler, lawyer, of 239 Broadway, and after consultation with another gentleman, whose name is withheld, and requested Mr. Wheeler to furnish the following card for publication:

ELIZABETH'S CONFESSION.

"Mr. Ira B. Wheeler—Dear Sir: A few weeks since, after long months of capital anguish, I told you a few facts which I had hitherto withheld, and the charge brought by my husband of adultery between myself and Rev. Henry Ward Beecher was true, and that the fact had lived in me well the last four years. I now solemnly reaffirm and leave the truth with God, to whom also I commit myself, my children and all who must come. I know full well the explanation that will be sought by many for this acknowledgment—a desire to return to my husband, insanity, malice, every-day save the truth and only one, and that is the cause of truth and justice. During all the complications of these years you have been my confidential friend, and therefore I address this letter to you authorizing and requesting you to secure its publication."

(Signed) "Elizabeth Tilton."
(Brooklyn, April 15, 1924.)

Mrs. Tilton came to Mr. Wheeler's office alone, but seemingly in pursuance of a determination made over a month ago. She was dressed with unusual care, discussed the contents of her card with the utmost calmness, and wrote it out in a clear, firm hand, making but one correction from the address to the signature, and that the substitution of the word "friend" for "adviser" in the third line from the last. Mr. Wheeler, who lives in Elizabeth, is a distant relative of Mrs. Tilton, and they have been warm friends from childhood. He frequently escorted her to and from the court room during the famous trial of three years ago, and since that time, as before, has been in constant communication with her. It appears her visit of yesterday, while not according to appointment, was not altogether unexpected. It is stated with the utmost positiveness that Mrs. Tilton called a number of her friends together about four weeks ago, among whom were several of Mr. Beecher's intimate friends, including among others, it is understood, Mr. Rosseter Raymond, and Mr. Thos. Shearman, and made to them a full and unqualified statement, alleging that the charge of her adultery with the Rev. Henry Ward Beecher was true in fact and in detail, as brought out in Mr. Tilton's suit. She requested that this confession should be communicated to Mr. Beecher, and it was so done. No report, however, was returned to her; nor, so far as can be learned, was any action thereon taken by either Mr. Beecher or by any of the parties concerned. Then there were consultations with other of Mrs. Tilton's friends, and it is quite certain some communication with Tilton himself; and the card as above was resolved upon. Mrs. Morse, Mrs. Tilton's mother, knew of the object of her daughter's visit to New York yesterday, and approved of her course; others of her friends advised her against it, but she was thoroughly resolved, and, as said, made but one immaterial alteration in the card as at first drafted. Mr. Wheeler brought the card to the World office late in the afternoon. At 6 o'clock Mrs. Tilton was found at her mother's house, No. 225 Madison street, Brooklyn, evidently having just returned from her trip to this city. Mrs. Tilton answered the bell in person, and the reporter was quite astonished at the change in her appearance. Instead of a slight, delicate woman, in unadorned black, whose haggard, pale face was frequently seen in Judge Nelson's court-room during the progress of her husband's suit, there came to the door a plump, pretty little woman, with rosy cheeks and bright eyes, a quick, strong step and erect carriage. It was, however, Mrs. Tilton beyond question, and she responded pleasantly when addressed. After a moment she said, "The card was written by me." "And you authorized Mr. Wheeler to make it public?" "Yes," she said, "it's all right, sir."

There was a group of young girls in front of the house, staring at the top of the door, and Mrs. Tilton was evidently much annoyed by their curious attention. She wished that the interview might not be continued, and repeating "It is all right, sir," bade the reporter good evening. Mr. Beecher left town yesterday morning on the 9 o'clock train of the Erie road, and lectured at Waverly, N. Y., last evening. When last seen yesterday morning Mr. Beecher, with a comfortable lap robe and a small carpet-bag, was crossing over to Jersey City on a boat of the Pavonia Ferry, in company with Mr. Hathaway, of the above-mentioned firm. He appeared in the best of spirits, and his countenance was lighted up with a genial smile. "I don't know," said Col. Beecher, last evening, "whether my father expected anything of this sort or not; we never talked to him about it, but I will say, for my part, that I am not surprised, for I have known for the last six weeks that Mr. Tilton was plotting his wife's confession, and I expected something of this sort."

"Why, what reason could Mr. Tilton have in desiring his wife to do what she has done?" asked the reporter.—"Call it hatred, malice, revenge, love of notoriety, or what you will," answered Col. Beecher. "An hour since I was for the first time told of it by a friend."

He declined to give the name of his informant, and said: "You can well understand that, as Mr. Beecher's son, I do not care to discuss this matter at all. I cannot say what the result will be or what my father will do. He has borne calumny for years. I am quite sure he can stand this. But it is cruel; wickedly cruel."

Mr. Halliday, the assistant pastor of Plymouth Church, said Mrs. Tilton had not confessed anything to him. On the contrary, she had always denied to him that there had been any undue behavior between Mr. Beecher and herself. He could not say whether or not the church would take any action, or whether or not any other Congregational Church would take any action. A member could prefer charges at a meeting of the Church, or the matter might be brought to the attention of the Standing Committee of the Church.

General Benj. F. Tracy, who was one of Mr. Beecher's lawyers during the trial, said Mrs. Tilton had made no confession to him. He heard yesterday of her confession, but he had not taken time even to consider how long it would be before she made another extra confession. "You didn't seem to attach any importance to the confession," said the reporter. "I don't see," replied Mr. Tracy, "why any more importance should be attached to this than any other of her confessions. This you know, in the third she has made. First she confessed to her husband that she did commit adultery, then she confessed that she hadn't, and now she says again that she did. What are we to believe? I feel a profound pity for the woman. I think there is something radically wrong about her mental operations." Mr. Tracy did not think Plymouth Church would take any notice of the confession.

New York, April 15.—Mr. Beecher was out of the city to night when Mrs. Tilton's letter was made public, and his whereabouts was not known, save to a few friends. The New York Tribune telegraphed him a copy of the letter at a late hour to night, and received the following dispatch in reply from Mr. Beecher:

TO THE EDITOR OF THE NEW YORK TRIBUNE:

Waverly, N. Y., April 15, 1924. I contrast Mrs. Tilton's confession with explicit and absolute denial. The need money to her own innocence and to mine which for four years she had made to hundreds in private, and in public before the court, in writing and orally, I declare to be true, and the allegations now made in contradiction of her uniform solemn and unvarying statements hitherto made I declare to be a deliberate lie to belittle the great transaction.

(Signed) HENRY WARD BEECHER.

A gentleman who was prominently connected with the defense with the Beecher suit, on being shown a proof sheet of the letter, after reading it carefully without evincing any surprise looked up and said, "Well." Upon being asked his opinion of it he at first declined to express any, but subsequently remarked that Mr. Beecher's friends had expected something of the kind for some time. As for the statement of Mr. Wheeler, to whom the letter was addressed, that Theodore Tilton did not know of its existence, the gentleman remarked with a smile that that would be the way he would go to work. Frequently, during the winter, said he, "Mr. Beecher had been applied to for money to aid Mrs. Tilton, the request or demand not technically coming from her, nor purporting to be made with her knowledge or consent, but as for her benefit, this demand was accompanied by threats and intimations that if it was not met something would turn up. Mr. Tilton's influence over his wife is very great, this gentleman continued, and she cannot resist it. A gentleman living near Mrs. Morse and Mrs. Tilton, and intimately acquainted with both, said the events of the past few months have led him to believe that arrangements for a reconciliation between Theodore Tilton and his wife have been completed.

He said some months ago, when he heard that Mr. Tilton had gone to see his wife with her consent, that we would soon see the beginning of the end. It is susceptible of one explanation; one of which naturally will be given to any act of such a poor crazy person who is putty in the hands of her husband, whenever he is with her. Her course at the beginning is at least such as destroys her weight as a witness for the other side. It proves that she is a weak, insane woman. Her statement on any subject is worthless, and that's all there is about it.

New York, April 15.—The Commercial says: "Since noon, the talk on the street increases about immediate redemption at the city banks. The only thing remaining to the consummation of the act of '75 is the taking out of $60,000,000 new bank circulation upon which the greenback issue of the treasury will be reduced before the 1st of January to the fixed minimum of $300,000,000, and we understand it is in contemplation to make up a list for this amount. The new circulation will be taken out in proportions of sales of new 44 per cents by the First National and Anglo-American syndicate, by monthly installments. The amount of Government bonds which this movement will require to be lodged with the Bureau of Currency at Washington is $67,000,000."

LANS & SCHOOLS

WASHINGTON, April 15.—Representative Glover has made an unexpected and undesirable discovery while going around to unearth something to injure his Republican opponents. His committee has come into possession of proof that at least $10,000 of the $32,000 which was expended during the trip of Morrison's investigating committee to Louisiana, during the Presidential contest, went into pockets not entitled to it. The money was expended by Mrs. S. K. Morrison, who was the Deputy Secretary of the committee, and Col. Polk, his assistant, who was afterwards the Doorkeeper of the House. Donavan had full charge in the distribution of the $32,000 placed in his hands by John Thompson, the Sergeant-at-Arms of the House. The affair creates much excitement among the Democrats, and the proof as to the irregularity is said to be overwhelming. Mr. Glover is the author of the statement that at least $10,000 was expended, but in a certain manner went into the pockets of certain Democrats. It is charged that Polk and Donavan can tell what became of this money, and they will be required to testify regarding it.

In the Senate to-day Mr. Sargent submitted an amendment to the House Joint resolving to restore Gen. Scholes (of Missouri) to the army and to place him on the retired list. The amendment proposes to place on the retired list, Generals Grant, Dix, McClellan, Banks, Butler, Burnside, Rosecrans, Sigel, Logan, Wallace, (of Indiana) Harburt, Franklin, Washburn, Schurz, Sherman, William F. Smith, Dodge, J. B. Cook, Canby, Garfield, Schenck, McCallum, Williams, (of Michigan) Devens, Averell, Fisk (of Missouri), Buckland, Thayer, Ewing, Payne, Kilpatrick, McCook, Hawley and others. The reading of this amendment created some amusement in the Senate, and was regarded at first as a burlesque. Mr. Sargent gave the Senate to understand that he was in earnest, and that there were undoubtedly others, whose names he had overlooked. All these were as equally meritorious as General Shields, and he did not see why they should not be placed on the retired list. Several Senators gave notice that they should move to add names to the above list when the bill shall come before the Senate for action.

ANCIENT CASTLES.

What appeals to the imaginative and reflective powers of man more than the ruins of some ancient ivy-covered and forsaken castle? They have invited the poets to help them weave into verse the legendary chivalry and bravery that history records to their former owners and occupants. Painters have vied with each other in portraying the grandeur of their solitude and decay. But is not the premature and social wreck of thousands of young people, annually, a theme that should appeal much more keenly to the collective faculties of man? Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., prescribes his Golden Medical Discovery in such afflictions with the most gratifying results.

No known remedy equals or compares with it in purifying and cleansing the blood, strengthening and invigorating the nervous system. If the bowels be constipated, use his Pleasant Purgative Pellets. In the more complicated cases, Dr. Pierce may be consulted by letter, and will generally be able to prescribe medicines especially prepared for each individual case that will speedily restore nervous vigor and perfect health.

The following parties, among thousands of others, have either been cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Medicines or have observed their wonderful curative properties on friends:

J. R. Selts, Cairo, Ky.; C. A. M. Williams, Claverack, N. Y.; C. T. Hubbs, Randolph, Pa.; C. B. Canfield, Chatham Four Corners, N. Y.; Albert C. Huston, Washington, D. C.; Mrs. E. R. Daly, Minneapolis, Minn.; John B. Lederman, Pekin, Ill.; R. A. Johnson, Buffalo, N. Y.; A. M. Clark, Albany, N. Y.; L. W. Griswold, Brockville, N. Y.; J. W. Dyer, Vermilion, Ill. For further particulars see "The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser," an illustrated work of over 900 pages, sold, postpaid, for $1.50. Address the author, Dr. V. Pierce, M. D., Buffalo, New York.
